DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Don was really focused on – and worried about – the opening of the Food Factory, but Poncho had a more positive attitude. Who do you think trusted God more in the moment of fear and stress? How do you react to scary situations?
2. Poncho had some really good ideas to help save the restaurant, but Don wouldn't listen to him because he was so worried about handling things himself. How do you think treating others with respect can help you solve problems? Do you think God wants us to handle everything on our own?
3. Why do you think Dr. Watson was upset when Sheerluck didn't share the credit with him? How does it make you feel when others don't appreciate your good ideas or help?
4. Do you think the way Sheerluck was bragging about himself and the case was honoring to God? How can bragging about ourselves hurt the people around us?
5. How could Sheerluck have treated Dr. Watson more like a friend? How do you treat your friends? Your family? What about the people you don't like?
6. Why do you think the "golden ruler," which says we should treat others like we want to be treated, was the most valuable treasure in the kingdom? Why is it so important to treat others with love and kindness?

CALL TO ACTION

It can be really hard to treat others with respect, especially when they don't treat us kindly. With your family, read Luke 6:27-36. We should be loving to other people, whether they are our friends, family, or people we don't like very much, not only because that is what the Bible says, but also because Jesus first showed us love and kindness, even though our sins made us enemies of God. Whenever someone makes you upset, take a minute before you respond or react, and think about how you would want them to treat you. And then choose to show them love and kindness.
